Living aloha is a journey—one rooted in compassion, connection, and care for our community and ‘āina. For nearly a century, Sumida Farm has carried on a rich tradition of nourishing Hawai‘i through fresh, nutritious watercress while educating generations past and present. Despite the urban growth surrounding it, the farm remains a vital cultural and environmental treasure, supporting native ecosystems and preserving the historic Kalauao Spring. Join us for a meaningful workday experience where you’ll:

- Learn how watercress is grown and harvested
- Explore the farm’s history and cultural significance
- See native plants and wildlife thriving through preservation efforts
- Give back through hands-on stewardship of the land

Important event details:

- All participants must register individually so we can plan accordingly.
- Activities include clearing and restoration work.
- Open to military servicemembers, veterans, and family members ages 16+.
- Participants under 16 are not permitted to attend.
- Parking is offsite at Pearlridge Center lot or Anna Miller’s/Starbucks lot. Walk to the farm for the event.
- Limited space for the event, up to 35 people.
- Please bring your own lunch to enjoy after the workday.
